this book represents a contribution to both border studies and short story studies in today's world there is ample evidence of the return of borders worldwide as material reality as a concept and as a way of thinking this collection of critical essays focuses on the ways in which the contemporary British short story mirrors questions and engages with border issues in national and individual life at the same time the concept of the border as well as neighbouring notions of liminality and intersectionality is used to illuminate the short story's unique aesthetic potential the first section geopolitics and grievable lives includes chapters that address the various ways in which contemporary stories engage with our newly bordered world and borders within contemporary Britain the second section examines how British short stories engage with ethnicity and liminal identities while the third animal encounters and metamorphic bodies focuses on stories concerned with epistemological borders and borderlands of existence and identity taken together the chapters in this volume demonstrate the varied and complex ways in which British short stories in the twenty-first century engage with the concept of the border graphic narratives of tragedies involving the journeys of irregular migrants trying to reach destinations in the global north are common in the media and are blamed almost invariably on human smuggling facilitators described as rapacious members of highly structured underground transnational criminal organizations who take advantage of migrants and prey upon their vulnerability this book contributes to the current scholarship on migration by providing a window into the lives and experiences of those behind the facilitation of irregular border crossing journeys based on fieldwork conducted among coyotes in Arizona the main point of entry for irregular migrants in the United States by the turn of the 21st century this project goes beyond traditional narratives of victimization and financial exploitation and asks who are the men and women behind the journeys of irregular migrants worldwide how and why do they enter the human smuggling market how are they organized how do they understand their roles in transnational migration how do they explain the violence and victimization so many migrants face while in transit this book is suitable for students and academics involved in the study of migration border enforcement and migrant and refugee criminalization boundaries borders and margins are related concepts and realities and each of these can be conceptualized and organized in closed or open ways with degrees of closure or openness the logics of stasis and closure as well as cults of exclusivist and exclusionary sovereignty are reflected and embodied in the closed xenophobic conceptualization and organization of boundaries borders and margins but an open conceptualization of the borderlands where mixing and hybridity take place at a rapid even dizzying pace gives rise to creolization at the threshold of sovereignties which can also be imagined at present our border zones are spaces of anxiety ridden security arrangements violence and death the existing politics of boundary maintenance is wedded to a cult of sovereignty at various levels which produces bare lives bodies and lands we need the new art of border crossing to be defined by the notion of camaraderie and shared sovereignties and non sovereignties border zones can also be zones of meetings communication transcendence and festive celebration of the limits of our identities thus we need a new art and politics of boundary transmutation transformation and transcendence in the broadest possible sense that entails the production of spatial scalar somatic cognitive affective and spiritual transitions globalization and transnationalism have reshaped our communities and their borderlines communities exceed fixed boundaries existing instead in the liminal spaces where narratives intersect clash or cooperate these liminal spaces physical and virtual local and global provide opportunities for diversifying discussions on diaspora cultural hybridity and ethnic identity ethnic women writers make significant contributions to this dialogue regarding the reconfiguration of people and their perimeters a multigenre and multicultural text community boundaries and border crossings explores the novels short stories essays autobiographies testimonios plays poems and hybrid poetics of established and emerging ethnic women writers this collection of critical essays highlights the new zones of cultural contact and exchange that are defining the twenty first century each chapter reflects an awareness of cultural changes and challenges engaging readers in a richly productive conversation concerning the interconnectedness of border crossings and community boundaries
